

Hockey

by Mirella Pollifrone

The question everyone seems to be asking is, "Can they do it again?" Every team starts out its season with the desire to be successful, but the S.H.S. Ice Hockey team plans to take each game one at a time and play the best they can.

This year, the team is made up of eight seniors, nine juniors, and three sophomores.

There is a lot of talent, some players being very experienced with others showing great potential. For many players, this is the last year for them to show what they can do. As for others, it's only a beginning.

Coach Gurney doesn't think there is a team we don't have the potential to give problems to. Their success will be partially dependent upon how well goalies Chris Odle, Bobby DeAngelis, and Teddy Milone perform.

Defensively, we are looking to captain Jamie Tropsa, who made All-State in '78. Pairing up with Jamie are Rich Donnelly and Matt Diot. On offense, the first line offers John Doherty, who is an alternate captain, Tom Fay, and newcomer Joe Mallozzi. The second line skaters are Doug Panaro, Mike Adatto, another alternative captain, and Eric Riddle. On the third line are Bill Cox, Mike Mallozzi, and Gary Ferri.

Coach Gurney is looking forward to working with new faces and new challenges. He definitely thinks the team will surprise the opposition, who think that Stamford has lost too much through graduation.

Christmas Celebration

by Lorraine Taylor

In every corner of the world where Christmas is celebrated, families look forward to this festive season with keen delight as they unpack their treasured keepsakes with which to deck the tree, add luster to wreaths and garlands, and bring sparkle to every part of the house. The individuality expressed in these ornaments, usually homemade, provides one of the best parts of Christmas.

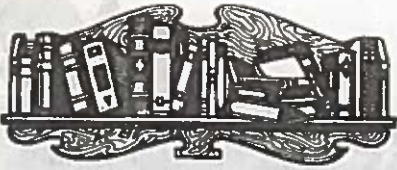

In the beginning, Christmas was essentially a day of spiritual observance without any of the fanfare and color now attending it. There were neither carols, bells, decorated trees, nor large spreads on the banquet table. It was a feast of the senses and a feast of the soul.

Christmas is now a time of rejoicing, feasting, and merrymaking. As Americans, we are the beneficiaries of Christmas customs and traditions from every part of the world. It is our heritage that makes us continue to enjoy these hallowed old-time practices so rich in meaning, symbolism, and nostalgia. To know them and seek out their significance is to enjoy Christmas to the fullest.

Boy Scout and Cub Scout Troop 65 is in need of all Boy Scout and Cub Scout uniforms and equipment. Any student who is willing to donate any uniforms or equipment is asked to contact the custodian's office.

Student's Opinion Changes

by Lorraine Taylor

Last year school was more fun for a lot of the students. They thought that they could smoke in the bathrooms and skip classes without being caught. Now everything has changed. As one student said, "Our fun days are now over." We have a certain time to get to class and must have a pass when we leave.

The smoking problem has been taken care of; instead of smoking in the bathrooms, students have set times in which they may go to the courtyard. This kind of structure makes many bitter because they think that they cannot have any more "fun" during school. For many teachers and some students, however, it is just the opposite. Now they can have their classes without being persecuted by some malevolent kid running and screaming down the hall.

I hope we follow the examples that the teachers and students are setting. For those who haven't tried to do better, I think that it's time to think things over and cooperate with our school in every way we can. Stamford High is known as the best, so let's keep it that way.
