Mullens Twirls Four Hitter Fans Eight Batters

Striving for its fourth Fair-Striving for its fourth Fair-field Conference win, the Stan-ford High School nine smanhed its way to a 5-3 win over Warrea Harding of Bridgeport on May 17. The contest, which took place on the Strawberry Hill diamond, was the second time the tra-ditional baseball foes have met this season, Harding boasting the win in the previous game, 5-0.

Bobby Kurma, Harding's celebrated moundsman who was the winning pitcher is the previous encounter, lacked hisusual stuff and was tagged for a pair of hits by Mike Buktowsky and Rody DeRosa in the second frame. These base blasts scored the first run of the game. Noose hullens twired a splendid game against the Bridgeport invaders allowing them but four hits throughout the entire costest, and whifting eight batters.

The Bridgeport sine acquired their trio of runs in the third inning, with Harding mealunsettling the Stanford infield by laying down anumber of bunts. A base kook supported by a few well-placed Dunts sent three runners to the pay-off plate. Prom the third inning on, Nellems had little troll in subduling the desperate Bridgeporters. 5-0. For Moose Nelson the same say it is as many starts, at the present moment Moose has been placed in the sportslight as the star twirler of the team as a result of his a-o record. Undoubtedly he will start in the important conference game against Greenwich.

SENIORS ADDRESS ROTARY

Six S.H.S. seniors addressed the Stanford Rotary Club on Tuesday, May 21, in the dislag room of the Roger Smith Butel. The topic discussed was: A Longrange policy for High School. The six speakers were Robert Stobble, Panal Boran, Fanold Cover, David d'almer, Andrew Tarens, Andrew Tarens, and Fanak Leanon.

These talks were a culmination of an ansual Botary Clab program. The boys have taken turns attending Rotary meetings throughout the school year.

Robert Stobble, acting as masshroughout the school year.

Robert Stobble, acting as manter of ceresonies, introduced the first speaker, David Palmer, who reviewed the history of

KEELY'S POEM WINS MEDAL

The Pioneer branch of the

The Pioneer branch of the American Penwomen has presented its award for the best poem entered from Stanford and surrounding area to Senior James Keeley of 306, for his poem entitled Infany. The award, agold medal, was presented to James at a luncheon held recently a Brockton Manor, and attended by many well known poets.

In the poem James has set down the actual eyevitness account of what he saw on December 7, 1991, from his home a short distance from Pearl Harbor, It was this story of the bombing, confusion and treachery that occurred on the fateful day, that influence the judges in selecting his entry as the fineers in our section of Pairfield County. The manuscript has been presented to various editors for consideration, and should soom appear in print.

ENGLISH CLASS PRESENTS ORIGINAL PLAY

A shortoriginal play, uniquely presented in the form of a radio broadcast, was presented by a senior English class at one of senior sugiish class at one of the last assemblies of the school year. The idea for the four-cor-mered, humorous love story, or-iginated in class discussions, and following a suggestion by Marjorie Lovell, a committee of six, aided by the entire class, wrote the dialogue.

six, aided by the estire class, wrote the dialogue.

Bill Caesareo as the sports annouscer, drew many laughs; Joe Delfino, John Jasik, Mary Williamson and Pat DeAngelis, as the four young people, provided the sucleus of the plot.

Other members of the cast were Irwa Schlam, John Calks, Greta Olson, Florence Tisano, Mario Ricciardi, Bob O'Meare, and Lenn Arruzza, who doubled in the vocal part for the beroine.

An a brilliant finale to the performance, Don Sappern's Stanford Bigh Swing Band readered four popular tunes. The orchestra with its fine saces giving a lift and smooth bontrast to the sharp, precise brass, had the audience alive with the fast tempo it maistained.

Mr. Humphries, who has worked earnestly in rating all of the graduating students and in naming the first twenty-five for honors, feels that a change should be made in the system of rating.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES

Audrey D. Smith

The audience which viewed Audray D. Smith in her peculiar screeching sopramo role as the mother in the recent Crany nouse production, would indeed be surprised to meet quiet, humarous Smitty as she is in everyday Life.

Tall, blonde, green eyed, and golden-voiced Audrey plans to fursing a modellery corner, contrary to the general assumption that whe will use her excellent voice as a stepping stome to a life in musical circles.

Desides taking part in the play, many musical assembles and the choir's many recitals, Smitty is best known by her classwates as the vice-president of her class in its sophomore year. Roing sports-minded, Audrey, likes to swim and skate, and anjoyn that fowerite pastime of all active young people, dencing.

Harry James is tops on this junior's list of band favorites. Popular Smitty will embark upon her modelling career as soon as she completes her senior year at S.E.S.

inade a host of friends in his tho active years at S.S. S. Bayish, blue-god Warren chowe promise in the field of music.

Nost dyou will remember Warren as the "gay embalmer" of the umps junior class production.

Crainy Bouse, but he has also appleared on the stage in many astemblies with the A Capella choir, and in the resent Spassish musical assembly. He is one of the two Stamford High representatives of the detropolition

From Seniors To Citizens

Now that the seniors have completed the last phase of preparation for adult 11fe with three enemorable years at 3.8.3. thoughts and actions must be turned to securing a favorable position in 11fe. However, the consunity 11fe of 3.8.3. and the tasks of being grown-up citizensless and the tasks of being grown-up citizens of 5 senior have 11 year in our own tone, elected our own officers, and have worked our systems of factively. The remaining factor to transplant these lessons intuiour delly lives. Treated like sealts throughout our school years, attrengthened by experience, we may take our places as civile-minded, active, interested citizens of our community, and sucreize the spirit; of comparation and brotherhood which has been cultivated in us during our years at Stanford High School.

We started to walk around the lobby and were inmediately joined by Carol Wattenberg who brought forth several pictures of her two year old twins, telling us, at the same time that she was using on them the psychology she took up in college.

We discovered Sibyl Link, Shirley Epstein, Joan Debbsa, and Barbara Crane, all famous designers discussing the trends of fashions. Shirley, Hattle Carnegie's assistant, was leading with her claims that glamorous movie actress: Audrey Messinger would wear anything she designed. Our talk then turned to Blal Montaine who had, since granuation been leading an exciting life, first as a Warine than as an explorer-artist in South America and Haska. John Elyer, promisent dental hygienist, was dur next topic of conversation. Dentints led to doctors, and we discussed distinguished Gilman Parsons, head surgeon at John-Elopkins, and his head nurse, capable Lois Choujer. We net Terry Lockwood looking extremely attractive in a Prussian blue gown with gold trim. Sybil whitspered to me that Terry was drensed especially for the occasion by Virginia Gallop's Drens Shop, for which she was head model. Seeing Terry reminded Sybil of Terry's chums, Berthu Umwiak and Jane Swathel. She naid Jane's reporter job for the Times keyt her busy.

Charles Wilher strolled up to me cutile where

He was now Principal of Kings School and setting a perfect example for his students to folfow. Mr. Wilber was accompanied by his old friend Jack Williams, who, we later learned, had succeeded his father as chairman of the Stunford school board, and was now immersed in an investigation at High School to make sure all students were given fair marks. Check called our attention to two long-faced gentlemen sitting off in a corner. We recognized them instantly as Frank Lesson, editor of the Times, and Joseph Mehas, editor of the Timuse. Wilber cautioned us not to go near them as they were involved in a mericant count discussion as to what effect Martin Rosemblug's newest secret weapon would have on the world.

Don Sappers sausted over to may hello and we both asked him for his autograph. Dos. that rare mixture of swing and classical musician laughed at our eagerness and offered us two tickets to his next Carnage Hall concert. He also brought ness about Bob Crame, who was on a personal appearance tour and new at the Paramount, and Teddy Catimo, touring the country with handmome Frank Boram as his vocalist. Don was bubbling over with news of the music world and included in wis report a summary of oaltering Francesca Nonarra's travels in the last year. It
